My father has some very fine sheep.

My father has some very fine sheep
In the bonny green fields of Doochary,
With a baa baa here and a baa baa there,
 Here a baa, there a baa,
 Here and there and here a baa,
Oh, say, bonny maiden, will you come along with me
 To the bonny green fields of Doochary?

My father has some very fine cows
In the bonny green fields of Doochary,
With a moo moo here and a moo moo there,
 Here a moo, there a moo,
 Here and there and here a moo,
Oh, say, bonny maiden, will you come along with me
 To the bonny green fields of Doochary?

My father has some very fine ducks
In the bonny green fields of Doochary,
With a quack quack here and a quack quack there,
 Here a quack, there a quack,
 Here and there and here a quack,
Oh, say, bonny maiden, will you come along with me,
 To the bonny green fields of Doochary?

My father has some very fine pigs
In the bonny green fields of Doochary.
With an ugh ugh here and an ugh ugh there,
 Here an ugh, there an ugh,
 Here and there and here an ugh,
Oh, say, bonny maiden, will you come along with me?

Traditional.*

*I took down this Antrim version from the singing of a Ballyclare man in the year 1906. The length of the song depends upon the singer's imagination, goats, horses, geese, etc., being added to the catalogue here given, with the sounds appropriate to each.—H. H.
